Testimony Regarded as Important.

mmediately after the recess. Mrs. Oelrichs

The witness traced her movements while she was down town in order to show about the time she returned home. Witness de-scribed the position of the body of her Witness Shows Emotion.

strangers should come in. The witness and her husband then went to the ninth precinct police station to notify the officers of the murder and returned immediately. Witness told of finding one bullet in a pool of blood under the stove, and another

In the murdered woman's shirt waist.

The witness was taken to the station house that night and remained there until the next afternoon. Mrs. Oelrichs declared about $1,000 in cash and several diamond rings, all of which were undisturbed.

Resided in Her Neighborhood.

Attorney Beach.

The witness said Andrew Weedon and Proceedings Yesterday Afternoon.

Wylie court, which runs through the square.

In answer to questions by the district atterney Mr. Hazen described in minute de by means of the plat, the location of the

In answer to a question by Attorney Lip-scomb the fact was elicited that the plat was made June 11, at the request of the district attorney. Witness stated, under cross-examination, that the map was not complete and that he had not been asked to make a complete map of the square. He did not include in the map all the houses on

Mr. Lipscomb's questions were all di-the square begun by the government. The witness was on the stand more than half an hour, and when he was excused Policeman Johnson, formerly the official photographer of the police department, was called to identify several photographs produced by the government. The photographs were made by Johnson immediately after the murder, and included views of the house, the locality and the room in which the murder is alleged to have occurred. These three photographs were of curred. These three photographs were of-fered in evidence by the government as soon as they had been identified. Police-man Sandberg, the present photographer of the police department, identified several other photographs showing exterior views of the house in which the murder was com-

Other Testimony.

Policeman Hayden, the next witness, testified as to the finding of the murdered woman in the house. Morguemaster

Schoenberger told of the removal of the body to the morgue and Deputy Coroner

Mrs. Beall, as determined by an autopsy performed by him at the morgue.

At the conclusion of Dr. Glazebrook's

JOHN GOODE ILL.

Visiting Children at Norfolk.

night says: John Goode, late president of the Virginia constitutional convention, former solicitor general of the United States under Cleveland's first administration, former representative in Congress and the only living member of the confederate congress, is ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. T. Brooke, in Nor-

Mr. Goode came to this city from his home in Washington recently on a visit to his son and daughter, who reside here. He was scheduled to speak at several Virginia college commencements during the next two weeks, and at old William and Mary College, in Williamsburg, was to have been present to receive the honorary degree of LL.D., but he has been compelled to cancel all engagements. He is past eighty years

Gladys Young, daughter of J. T. Lynch, fell from a second-story window at her parents' home today and was killed. Window shutters against which she was leaning

$75,000 for Mrs. Bennett.

A dispatch from New Haven says:

An order was issued in the probate court in this city yesterday directing William J.

from the sale of Mr. Bennett's business dispatch from Norfolk, Va., last this morning.

gave way.

house and other points.

that Mrs. Beall was dead.

810-816 Seventh St.

715 Market Space.

Purchase of Embroideries.

MEW FFEGTS. Worth 10c. 3C.

MIFFERENT PRICINGS. Embroidery, Edgings and Inserting; neat, well made edges; pretty assortment of widths and choice patterns, including black and white and red and white; widths of insertion now used for stripping shirt waists and suits.

Worth 15c. 778C.

Nainsook, Swiss and Hamburg Embroideries, wide edgings scalloped and plain heavy work; new patterns; sheer quality; I to 5 inches wide; worth 15c. actually.

Worth 25c. 11c.

Worth 39c. 15c.

Lot of extra quality Embroidery and Inserting for the Persian lawn, organdies and all summer fine dress material, very effective patterns. Also large assortment of all widths embroidery, beading and inserting in match sets.

A new line of Smart Embroideries for allover embroidered waists, inserting to match for $ inserting skirts. French Flouncing of blind and open patterns, some with teneriffe and Mexican wheel work.

Two Special Lots of Waists. $1.00 to $1.50 75c. Waists -

Waists = = = Odds and endsbroken sizes-Per-sian Lawn and India Linen Waists in a variety of styles. Some embroidered medallions down ront-tucked sleeves. From 1e-odds and ends of waists accumulated from our recent sales. Percale and White Lawn Waists: some with tucked yokes to bust line: tucked back; others in colored madras; usually 75c. The Frederich Michel Stock of Worth $3 up to $5 - - -

These Hats are not samples. The maker had the material, but it was not made up until the deal was consummated. The hats are bright, new and fashionable.

Included are black, white, blue, chamcolors. Large and small shapes, Gains-boroughs and flares, chiffon and straw hats. Some trimmed with flowers—some ribbons and laces—some buckles. Ever thing new and chic in $3 and $5 millinery.

25c. Corset Covers, 15c. 25 dozen Cambric Corset Covers; French style, with lace around neck and armholes-worth 25c.-Thursday,

15c. Vests, 97c. Vests; silk drawing tape in neck and armholes-worth 15c.-Thursday, spe-

325c. Muslin Drawers, 19c. Ladies' Muslin Drawers; umbrella style; deep cambric ruffle trimmed with

50c. Gowns, 39c.

Low-neck Cambric Gowns; hem-stitched ruffle around neck; short sleeves; sold usually at 50c.—Thurs-

25c. Aprons, 15c. Full-length Gingham Aprons, with deep pockets; extra well made, and worth 25c.—Thursday, special, at 15c.

50c. Net Corsets, 39c. A new lot of summer corsets; full lace—worth 25c.—Thursday, special, boned, with medium waists; the usual 19c.

boned, with medium waists; the usual 50c. Corset—Thursday, special, 39c.

SURPLUS-STOCK SHOES Reduced for Thursday Only.

OMORROW there will be another one of those busy days at our 3 Stores for those prudent shoppers who read and avail themselves of the advantages offered by our Advertisements.

The Shoes advertised at Reduced Prices for tomorrow only-are all new, up-to-date Summer Shoes -but we fear we have too many of some of these kinds -therefore we've decided to unload them at quickmoving prices.

Women's Seasonable Footwear

$2.50 Oxford Ties. Hand-welt Patent Colt and Tan cher and Oxford $1.87 Ties; 3 styles. To-$1.87

$1 Kid Turn Oxfords. 200 pairs Turn Sole Vici Kid Patent Tipped Oxford Ties; all sizes. Tomorrow.

$1.50 Low Shoes. White Lines Oxford Ties and 3 styles Turn Sole Black Kid Oxford Ties; kid $1.15

50c. House Slippers. English Serge, cool, comfortable and durable House and Kitchen Slippers; all sizes. Tomorrow...

Men's Shoes.

$3.50 Patent Kids. Four nobby styles of Booth & Co.'s guaranteed Patent Ideal Kid hand-made low and Oxford Ties;
All Sizes and Widths, Tomor- $2.65

$3 Hand-Welt Shoes. Velour, Box Calf and Vici Kid Laced, Bluchers and Oxford Ties, with genuine Oak tanned soles, which don't burn the feet; 4 $2.25 different kinds.
Tomorrow only.

$2 Quality Oxfords, Patent Leather, Velvet Calf and Vici Kid Oxford Ties; 3 pop-ular sorts. To-morrow only..... $1.30

Boys' & Girls'.

$2 Grade Shoes. Soft dark tan Kid Button and Laced Boots, sizes 111/2 to 2-Vici Kid and Patent Colt low Button and Bluchers; Sizes $1.29

$1.50 Summer Shoes. Child's Kid and Patent Colt Bluchers and Low Button-Child's Dark Tan Laced and Button Boots; $1.10

$1 Canvas Shoes. Boys' Gray Mixed Canvas Shoes, with good - wearing leather soles; made on shapely lasts; 69C.

Wm. Hahn & Co. S 1914 & 1916 Pa. Ave. 3 Reliable Shoe Houses, 233 Pa. Ave. S. E.

Whereabouts of the Detroit.

It has developed that it was not the cruiser Detroit that arrived at San Juan Monday, as it was reported to the Navy Department by the commandant of the naval station. The name of the vessel which was mistaken for the Detroit is still unknown at the department, despite the fact that the commandant at San Juan was asked for in-actual whereabout of the Detroit was mad known to the Navy Department yesterday by the receipt of a cable message from her commander, Capt. Dillingham, announcing the arrival of the vessel at Annapolis, Nova Scotia, at o'clock last night, five days from

Return of Gen. Oliver.

Assistant Secretary Oliver of the War Department has returned to this city from

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE

Andrew Weedon Faces Government Witnesses.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

THE KILLING OF MRS. BEALL, HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Twin Granddaughters of the Deceased Woman Placed on the Witness Stand.

The trial of Andrew Weedon for the mur der of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rachel Beall, acter of the case has attracted so much attention that the court room was filled with spectators when Justice Gould took his seat on the bench this morning. Except the testimony showing Mrs. Beall to have been left alone in the house the day of the murder, the day has been devoted almost entirely to showing the involved relations of the members of the Beall and Weedon family and their branches and their participation in the benefits of the estate of the late Charles Beall, husband of the murdered woman. Mr. Beall was the owner of nine houses, which were left to his wife in trust to the children, Mrs. Weedon, wife of the defendant, being one of the latter. Mr. Beall, was the executor of the estate and as she was not a resident of the District, she made her sister, Mrs. Minnie Bibb, her agent for the management of the

Mrs. Dryden and Mrs. Bibb were both on the witness stand tcday. The story de-veloped by them and claimed by the prose-cution is that of strained relations between Mrs. Weedon and the means of her family, and of an attempt made to dispossess her of the house in which she was living, one of the Beall estate houses. This at-tempt was frustrated only by the murder of Mrs. Beall. The house in question was one that was to go to Mrs. Weedon at he mother's death.

The court concerned itself today with tracing the management of the Beall estate and of how Mrs. Weedon came to be liv-ing in the house. Evidence was also aded as to Weedon's conduct toward his

The proceedings this morning were en-livened by the appearance as witnesses of Virgie and Grace Douglass, the twin daughters of Mrs. Bibb by a former marriage. These two girls were familiar fig-ures about the City Hall about a year or so ago when their mother was endeavoring to secure their custody, Mrs. Beall, the murdered woman, being the respondent in the habeas corpus proceedings instituted at that time by Mrs. Bibb. The two girls are exactly alike and were dressed allke and it was necessary to keep them both in court to convince the jury that there were Granddaughter on the Stand.

Virgie B. Douglass, a fourteen-year-old granddaughter of the murdered woman. was the first witness heard today. The witness and her twin sister live with their aunt, Mrs. Oelrichs, with whom Mrs. Beall lived. The witness told of the movements of the members of the family on the morning of the murder. On cross-examination the witness said her grandmother was in the habit of rising earlier than the others and of taking an early breakfast. It was Mrs. Beall's custom to eat two breakfasts, one early and one shortly before 9 o'clock and did not return until noon, when she found the front door of the house locked. She went to the side gate, but that was fastened by a padlock, which was on outside of the gate. The witness then went to the house of a neighbor for her lunch and returned to school at 1 o'clock. Witness remained at school during the af-ternoon, and after school visited the home of a schoolmate in the neighborhood. Her with the report that their house was still chosed. Withese and he sisted their well-home together. They met their uncle, Charles Beall, and he gave them car tickets and told them to go to the house of their mother, Mrs. Minnie Bibb, 1225 7th street

During the cross-examination of the first witness Justice Gould took occasion to announce that it would be the court's policy to exclude testimony which did not have a direct bearing on the case. This announce-ment was brought out by an attempt on the part of the defendant's counsel to secure answers to questions to which the government objected on the ground of irrele-vancy. The court sustained the objection of the the government and made the an-appearance of the next witness Grace Douglas, twin sister of the preceding witness, caused a ripple of excitement and all eyes turned toward the girl who had just left the stand. It would have been difficult to convince some of the spectators that two people could be so exactly alike in every respect as these Douglas twins. Grace Douglas told practically the same story as her sister, the only variation being that this witness had left home a few minutes before her sister.

Mrs. Katherine Dryden, a daughter of Mrs. Rachel Beall, was called to the stand of the stand to tell something of the property left to the Sand her children by the late Chas. Beall and her children by the late Chas. Beall, Mrs. Rachel Beall's husband. Mrs. Dryden was executrix of the estate of

The government attempted to learn some thing of the division of the property of the late Charles Beall, but the court sustained an objection to this line of inquiry.

Ownership of House. By another line of inquiry the government developed the fact today that the house occupied by the Weedons belonged to the estate of which she had charge, but that she had authorized eviction proceedings against

Mrs. Dryden stated that she is a resident of Baltimore and sings comic songs on the stage. As she was a non-resident and much of the property of the estate is in this city, the witness appointed her half-sister, Mrs. Minnie Bibb, her agent in the District of Columb'a. The landlord and tenant agree-Weedon for the renting of the Weedon house was produced in court. In answer to a question by Mr. Lipscomb, the witness declared she had not seen Weedon for twenty-two years. After the witness left the stand Attorney Mullowny read the will and the agree-

Mrs. Bibb's Testimony.

Mrs. Minnie Bibb was then called to the stand. The witness stated she had first met Weedon in May, 1903, when she had paid a visit to the defendant's wife. defendant's counsel objected stren-

The defendant's counsel objected stren-uously to the witness detailing the conver-sation between her and the defendant at the time of this first meeting, on the ground of its being irrelevant and having no ap-parent connection with the murder. Justice Gould held that the question of the possession of certain property in which the murdered woman held an interest seemed to be material, and overruled the objection of the defendant's counsel.

The witness told of the renting of the house at 236 9th street southeast to Andrew Weedon, jr. She did not know the lessee was the defendant's son. She went to see Mrs. Weedon at that time, and Mrs. Weedon gave her the key to the house. The defendant came in at this time, and on learning that his wife had given up the key he was angry and swore at his wife and cursed the entire Beall family. The Weedons paid their rent up to September, when they ran behind, and promised it later. When she called later the defendant said he had no money, and again paid his respects to the Beall family, declaring that some fine day he was going to throw a use at 236 9th street southeast to Andrew some fine day he was going to throw a stick of dynamite into Jess Bell's house, but he told the witness not to tell her any-defendant meant Mrs. Oelrichs, with whom the murdered woman lived. The witness said that after this visit she served a thirty-day notice on the Weedons to move.

amination, did not materially change the evidence given be Mrs. Bibb under the evidence of the prosecutor, but they sequestioning of the prosecutor, but they secured the additional information that the late Charles Beall left nine houses after his death, and the witness had become agent of the executor, and three of these nine houses were occupied by heirs of the estate.

An Interview With Her in The noon recess was taken, when Mrs. the Tombs.

Mrs. Jessie Beall Oelrichs was regarded as the most important witness for the pros-SHE DENIES THE CRIME ecution, and she was placed on the stand lived at the house 1344 H street, and kept SAYS SHE IS GUILTLESS OF house for her mother, the woman who was murdered.

Mrs. Oelrichs told of the relationship of CAESAR YOUNG'S DEATH.

Mrs. Oelrichs told of the relationship of the various parties to the case, she being the oldest daughter of the deceased woman and Mrs. Bibb the youngest. Mrs. Weedon is a daughter of a previous marriage of the witness' father. The witness described the arrangement of the rooms in her house.

On the day of the murder, December 11, 1903, Mrs. Oelrichs said, she left the house shortly before 9 o'clock. A few minutes afterward Virgie Douglas departed, and she was soon followed by the witness and Grace Douglas, Mrs. Beall being left alone in the house. Is Greatly Changed Since Her Im prisonment, but is Calm and Collected Always.

Special Dispatch to The Evening Star NEW YORK, June 22 .- "God help me, I'll n the house. The witness had several errands down town, and upon returning home she entered the house from the rear and going into what I'll convince the world I am guiltless of the death of Caesar Young.' the kitchen discovered the body of her > ative of The Star who was sent to New York to get a statement from her. The interview took place in the Tombs where Miss Patterson was committed immediately following the death of Caesar Young in their fateful ride on West Broadway on the morning of June 4.

So spoke Nan Patterson to a represent mother under the stove. She said she at-tempted to extricate the body, but was unable to do so. Her husband arrived at this moment, and together they dragged the body from under the stove and found It requires a lot of red tape to get into the Tombs. While visitors are admitted between certain hours every day, such an The witness broke down and wept as important prisoner as Nan Patterson is she recited these details. After she had besafeguarded both for her own sake and that come more composed the witness said her of the government. Hundreds of people ausband left her in the house while he have been to see her, but save her friends went to notify Everett Beall, a brother, emno one has got near her. Each mail brings oloyed at the War Department.

The witness then told of the efforts made scores of letters expressing sympathy and giving advice. The letters serve as a dis-traction to her in the lonely life she leads, to fix up the house after the return of her husband. As the house was not plastered and looked like a storage place, they desired to have it look more homelike when and she reads them all.

It was just after she had pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of murder in the court of general sessions that The Star reporter saw her.

Accompanied by the brother of one of the counsel, the reporter was admitted. As a preliminary his name and address were entered in the prison ledger, and then the re porter was searched for dangerous weap ons. A pocket knife was the only thing "dangerous" found, and this was confiscated during the interview. Mrs. O'Brien, a that the house was undisturbed when she went through it after the discovery of the body of the murdered woman. In answer to a question, she said she had in the house kindly, motherly woman, is the matron of the woman's section, and her sympa-thetic Celtic heart is betrayed in the sweet blarney that discloses her birth.

"Sure, you can see the poor dear, if she says so. Poor, timid little t'ing," she added, leading the way to the woman's sec-his wife lived in the neighborhood, but Seated at the far end of a rough bench in there had been no intercourse between her the first corridor sat Nan Patterson. It family and the Weedons. The witness was not the same Nan Washington knew identified pictures of the house taken by half a dozen years ago. The bright vivathe police shortly after the murder. The witciousness has been superseded by a serious ness was then turned over to the defendmien and the slight girlish figure has ant's counsel for cross-examination.

Nan Patterson in the Tombs.

The direct examination was severe and searching, and was concluded by District rounded into a womanly form. The old winsome smile was there, though, and she came forward hurriedly to grasp the re-Attorney Lipscomb, for the defense, subporter's hand:

"Oh, I'm so glad to see some one from home. How's mamma? Surely my friends in dear old Washington don't believe me guildear old washington don't believe me guil nitted the witness to most severe cross-examination. The witness described the examination. The witness described the condition of the house at the time of the murder at the request of Mr. Lipscomb. She said the house had been planned by her and built under her direction, although it was built by her father and was part of the property in which the murdered woman had a life interest. ty. How's mamnia? Poor darling, how much ty. How's mamnia? Poor darling, how much I want to see her. And papa, see how badly he looks," pointing to the figure of Mr. Patterson as he came forward and clasped his daughter to his breast. It was a picture of exquisite sadness. The father grown a dozen years older in the last fortnight, at the last purposes. The cross-examination of Mrs. Olerichs was still in progress as The Star's report striving to keep up under circumstances desperate enough to break down a dozen

"When are they going to let me out, papa? This place is terrible. If I were not innocent of this awful crime I'd break After the recess yesterday afternoon the examination of the government witnesses down under th's strain."

The two held a whispered conversation W. C. Hazen, a civil engineer, was the for a few minutes and The Star man withdrew. Shut out from the sunlight, the bloom has faded from Miss Patterson's face, first witness called to the stand to identify a plat of the square, 1026, surrounding the and the prison pallor accentuates the sad-ness of her countenance. house at 1344 H street northeast, where the murder was committed. The witness de-

"The newspapers have been saving such "The newspapers have been saying such harsh things of me. They have fibbed out-rageously. Here is a sample: 'Another Witness Found.' That story is false."

At this moment the matron came in and scribed the square, giving the dimensions of the alleys opening into and running through i., the louses fronting on H street and gently told the father time was up, and at fifteen minutes to 12 the bell rang for the visitors to leave the prison tail the house in which the murder was committed. The witness showed the jury,

A Long Talk With Her.

The Star man went back in the afternoon. Miss Patterson was with her lawyers. After they had gone the reporter had a long talk with her. Miss Patterson was loth to talk about her case. Again and again she declared her innocence and then uttered the words.

"God help me, I'll stay in this awful prison until I rot but what I'll convince the world I am guiltless of the death of Ceasar rected toward completing the description of Young. I never killed him, God knows I did not. Some day it will all be known.' ness, and only when the names of her betray any feeling. Then her lips would quiver and she would choke down the sob that struggled for expression.

No one knows when Nan Patterson will be brought to trial. Some say she will never be called before a jury; that she will insist upon going before the district at-torney and telling the whole story of the tragedy. This is what she wants to do, but her lawyers advise against it.
It is well known about the district attorney's office that the government has little or no case against her and is not anxious to go to trial, hoping something will develop in the meantime. It is also known that if she were to satisfy District Attorney Jerome of her innocence, he would order her discharge. It is this very thing that makes Miss Patterson anxious to tell her story, and it is through this process and this alone that she will gain her free dom this summer.

There is no earthly chance, it is said, for the trial to come off in July. The calendar is full of important cases and Judge Groff, who will likely be presiding at that time, will hardly take this case up out of turn.

Many people believe it will be established that J. Morgan Smith purchased the lightly with which Casser Vargas this Glazebrook, the last witness examined in the afternoon, gave the jury the benefit of his investigation of the cause of death of testimony court adjourned until 10 o'clock pistol with which Caesar Young met his death. Pawnbroker Stern has described Smith to the district attorney as a man above the average height, weighing about 200 pounds, with sandy hair, and says he was accompanied by a woman much small Veteran Democrat Taken Sick While er than himself.

> of the case. The government hopes to prove that this pistol was purchased the day before the tragedy and must have been in Nan Patterson's possession. They make out rather a strong case of circumstances, and unless this can be explained away Nan Patterson will have to fight for her life. New York forgot the tragedy for the nonce in the overshadowing calamky to the steamboat General Slocum. She awoke, however, today and the papers are printing wild stories of the case. One afternoon paper has Miss Patterson shricking a protest against taking any part in the killing of Young and pictures her fainting over the intelligence of her mother's desperate condition. Both these statements are false. She did not raise her voice when she plead-ed, and her father brought her news of her mother's improvement. So there was no fainting on that account, or any other for that matter. She is wonderfully cool and collected, and is bearing up with a fortitude that is winning her friends every day, who cannot reconcile her honest de meanor with the suggestion that she is

Various Explanations Given.

There are various explanations for the tragedy. Some say Young, jealous of her and suspecting her of infidelity, tried to kill her and in the scuffle to protect herself the pistol went off and he was accidentally killed.

Bryan, as executor, to pay over to Mrs. Another is that Young tried to comm suicide and after a scuffie succeeded.

No one advanced any belief that Nan Patterson deliberately killed Caesar Young.
That she was devoted to him no one ques-Philo S. Bennett $75,000 in lieu of her dower rights. There is on deposit with a trust company in New York $150,000 that came tions. Some of the letters the government has in its possession demonstrates this.

Meanwhile the machinery of the law is grinding away, alas! too slowly for the timid little girl in the Tombs accused of murdering the man she loved. Bryan asked the court so to word the order for the payment of the $75,000 that he which caused the death of Caesar Young. They were closeted for some time. It deeloped later that the district attorney wanted Stern to go to Washington with Detective Price and recognize if possible, J Morgan Smith as the man who purchased the revolver. Detective Price carried a let-ter to Ch'ef Sylvester, asking his co-opera-

It is understood the detective has orders to cause the arrest of Smith if necessary that Pawnbroker Stern may have an op-A race is on between the district attorney's office and the lawyers of Nan Pat-terson. The goal is J. Morgan Smith Both sides want to produce him in New York, and the legal advantage belongs to the side getting him here first. Nan Pat-terson's father left yesterday afternoon for Washington, presumably to bring the recreant witness. A few hours later De-tective Price left New York in company with Pawnbroker Stern. Today the dis-trict attorney's office received informa-tion that Smith had left the apartments of his wife's family and all trace of him had been lost. At the hotel where Mr. Fatterson stops it was stated he was expected back today. Whether he will bring Smith or not no one knows. Detectives will be in readiness at both depots to promptly arrest him when he arrives This is probably known to Nan Patterson's lawyers, and every means to bring Smith to New York unknown to the officers will be used. The bringing of Smith to New York by the defendant's counsel means that an effort will be made to have Nan Patterson discharged without trial. It will likely be admitted that Smith purchased the pistol for his sister-in-law, who had, it is understood, been threatened with destruction by Young because of a jealous quarrel. In fact, if the case ever comes to trial it will be shown, it is said, by many witnesses that Young was insanely jealous of Nan Patterson and many times threatened her life. The possession of the pistol, it is said, will be accounted for by the fact that the defend-ant was in hourly dread of her paramour and feared he would kill her before sailing for Europe.

NEW YORK DETECTIVE HERE. He and Pawnbroker Stern Seek J. Mor gan Smith.

this city today when Detective Price of New York and Pawnbroker Stern came here for the purpose of seeing Mr. J. Morgan Smith, brother-in-law of "Nan" Paterson. It is the belief of the New York police, as heretofore stated in The Star, that Mr. Smith is the individual who purchased the revolver from Pawnbroker Stern, and it was for the purpose of identifying Mr. Smith that the pawnbroker was brought here by the New York detective. They came over on an early morning train and saw Capt. Boardman at police head-quarters. The latter detailed Detectives Pratt and Peck to render what assistance they could to the New Yorkers in their ef-forts to find Mr. Smith and his wife. It was stated by Detective Price before he left headquarters that he had not come here for the purpose of making any arrests, but merely for the purpose of having the pawnbroker see the Smiths, if they could be found.

The detectives had learned from Saturday's Star that the Smiths had arrived in this city, and that they had, in all proba-bility, called at the Franklin, on 14th street, where the parents of "Nan" Patterson and Mrs. Smith live. It was stated today that a man and woman answering the descriptions of the Smiths were seen at the Frank-lin Friday and Saturday, but they have not been seen there since the latter day. Leav ng headquarters the two local sleuths and the New Yorkers started out in search of the Smiths. The sight of Mr. J. Morgan Smith would have satisfied them, although they would not have objected to get a glimpse of Mrs. Smith, as there was a woman with the man when the revolver was purchased.

Leaving police headquarters the quartet sauntered down 6th street to Pennsylvania avenue, and went west as far as 12th street. They were careful to take notice of pedestrians, thinking they might possibly run across Mr. Smith. The latter is well known in sporting circles, and it was thought possible that he had left his room and gone search of a "handbook" to put down some coin on a "sure tip" on the ponies. Wher 12th street was reached Detective Peck left the party and went in the direction of th disreputable section of the city, while the New York contingent, with Detective Pratt, boarded a 14th street car and went in the direction of the Franklin. It was not until V street was reached that the trio left the car and went in search of Mr. Smith. Pawnbroker Stern seated himself on a box Pawnbroker Stern seated himself on a box at a corner store, and the two sleuths sallied forth to find the man whose name has been so much talked of in the celebrated case. When a half hour had elapsed the detectives returned, and the three held a conference. There was nothing about their manner to indicate that they had met with success, and they soon made a start down success, and they soon made a start down Near the intersection of 14th and V streets the local detective in the party recognized a Star reporter, who was changing cars at the junction of the 14th street and Chevy Chase lines. He passed the word along the line and the trio acted "about face" as well as if they had belonged to the local militia. There was a big tree near them, but it was not large enough for the desired purpose, although the three big men did their best to hide behind it. The reporter apparently ignored them and rode south on a 14th street car. This ride was only for a short distance, however, and when he returned to the vicinity of the Franklin the detectives were seen coming from the rear of the building, where they had no doubt been on a still hunt. Then the flat was visited, but what transpired there is not known. All this time the pawnbroker was resting himself. There was no apparent reason why he should go with the detectives through back alleys and side streets, for the detectives knew they could reach him in short order if they suc-ceeded in finding Mr. Smith.

Major Sylvester and Capt. Boardman said that prior to today they had not been re-quested to render any assistance whatever in the New York case. The appearance of Detective Price and the pawnbroker this morning was the first official knowledge they had of the shooting of "Caesar" Young. It was stated at headquarters that the New York detective brought no papers here with him, and that he did not come for the purpose of making an arrest. Should the pawnbroker succeed in getting a glimpse of him and identify him as the purchaser of the weapon that was used in the case some action may be started in an efort to force his return to New York to give testimony in the case. When he was there sed to make a statement, and, it is believed, the case hinges upon what he may say in substantiation of anything "Nan" Patterson may conclude to tell the author

It is the belief of most of the deter This, after all, is the important feature tives connected with the local force that the shooting of "Caesar" Young was the result of an accident. It is their idea that "Nan" Patterson drew the revolver and pretended she was going to end her life because "Caesar" Young was going to board an outgoing steamer and leave her. Young, it is suggested, then made an ef-fort to prevent what he thought was going to be a tragedy, and in so doing was accidentally killed. "Nan" Patterson, it is argued by those who knew her, would never have shot herself and would not have had a weapon had not the suicide bluff been planned for her. It is believed by her friends that a clear statement of he case would result in her immediate release from the serious charge that is now pending against her. It was stated that the detectives had not succeeded in locating Mr. and Mrs. Smith at a late hour this afternoon. A friend of the Patterson family told a Star reporter this afternoon that he knew the Smiths had come to this city, but he felt sure that they were not at the

NO WORD FROM LOOMIS.

Mysterious Disappearance at Plymouth -Statement From Brother.

LONDON, June 22.-Apparently nothing s known in regard to the disappearance of Kent J. Loomis, brother of Assistant Secretary of State Loomis, who was a passenger on board the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, which left New York June 14 and arrived at Plymouth Monday morning and at Bremen yesterday. Inquiries made at Bremen show that Mr. Loomis was seen at midnight Sunday on By "Jess Beil," it was disclosed later, the defendant meant Mrs. Celrichs, with whom the murdered woman lived. The witness said that after this visit she served a thirty-day notice on the Weedons to move.

Accomplish No Change.

The defendant's attorneys, in cross-ex-

Barber & Ross.

Blue Flame 66Oil-Gas" Stoves.

You can cut the expense and labor of cooking in half by using the Sterling Puritan Blue Flame "OIL-GAS" Stovemakes its own gas from ordinary kerosene oil and gives a blue flame that's hotter than coal gas or gasoline.

a world of time and labor. Very handy for a quick breakfast. No fires to kindle. Simply turn on the valve-light a match-and your fire is started. 1-burner - - $2.75 in the country without a blue-flame oil stove. It'll save you

2-burner - - $4.50 3-burner - - $6.50

Ovens, asbestos lined. $2.25 Barber & Ross,

2-burner Gas Stoves..... $1

Splendid Russia Iron Baking

11th and G Sts. ************

Many people suffer with an aching head week a ter week, occasionally getting relief from so-called Such people should do a little coming. Headache is simply the result, a warning siunl of a far more serious trouble. Usually means bad blood, poisoned by an inactive or slu gish liver. Headache sufferers are often nervous cross and irritable. Their sleep is disturbed and digestion impaired. The liver doesn't do its wor brain. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills cure headache by removing the cause. They are Nature's true laxative, and give tone to liver activity are a positive specific for billiousness and a torpid liver. Get your liver right by using Smith's Pine apple and Butternut Pills and your head won't ache, your nerves won't weaken, nor your food distress you. They cure headache, constipution and billiousness in one night. Price 25 cents at all

All genuine signed W. F. Smith. SMITH'S BUCHU LITHIA PILLS.

POSITIVE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM AND ALL FORMS OF KIDNEY AND BLADDER ILLS.

> A CURE AT THE PEOPLE'S PRICE. MTANHOPE RUNABOUT

S. Bensinger, Phone M. 247.

ing of the disappearance of the passenger. A dispatch received from Bremen today reads as follows: "The North German Lloyd Company has no information about Mr. Loomis, beyond the fact that he was missed an hour before the arrival of the steamer at Plymouth Whether it was an accident or suicide is P. F. Murphy, a passenger on the Kaiser Wilhelm, who is now in London, says he saw Mr. Loomis shortly before the passen-gers landed at Plymouth. Mr. Loomis was going on to Cherbourg. Mr. Murphy does not credit the idea that Mr. Loomis committed suicide or the theory that his disap pearance is due to an accident. A dispatch from Paris says that appre hension has been aroused there concerning the whereabouts of Mr. Loomis, and that on the request of friends the agents of the company are making inquiries.

BERLIN, June 22.-E. A. Gimbel, who was a passenger on the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, from New York, which arrived at Plymouth Monday morning and at Bremen yesterday, tells the Associated Press that Kent J. Loomis was last seen shortly before the vessel reached Plymouth. Mr. Gimbel is not certain whether Mr. Loomis disem-barked there or disappeared while crossing the channel. The vessel was detained thirty minutes at Cherbourg for a thorough search of all the cabin, which was without result. Mr. Loomis intended disembarking at Cherbourg. It appears that Mr. Loomis was in the habit of sitting high up on the upper deck, among the boats, a position regarded as dangerous. Mr. Gimbel's little daughter says she saw Mr. Loomis Monday afternoon sitting among the boats on the upper deck.

Assistant Secretary of State Loomis has Assistant Secretary of State Loomis has been notified by the officials of the steamship company that his brother, Kent Loomis, who was on his way to Europe, had disappeared from the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Mr. Loomis, however, is confident that his brother has not come to harm. His reason for this belief is the fact that when the boat touched at Plymouth, which was during the night, his brother landed, as was shown by the dispatch by him of a cablegram which was received in Washington. Mr. Loomis thinks that his brother ton. Mr. Loomis thinks that his brother was accidentally left in Plymouth when the boat departed for Cherbourg.

NOT GOING TO TANGIER.

Battle Ship Squadron Sails From Gibraltar for Athens.

The United States battle ship squadron commanded by Rear Admiral Barker, and consisting of the Kearsarge, Maine, Alabama and Iowa, sailed from Gibraltar today on a cruise in the Mediterraneanas far east as Pireaus, the port of Athens, where the ships' crews will be given shore liberty for about ten days. The squadron will not visit Tangier, as there is no necessity for additional warsnips in that quarter. The battle ships lilinois and Missouri and the cruiser Mayflower, which are attached to this squadron, are now on the Atlantic bound for Gibraltar, from which point they will proceed to join the squadron at either Pireaus or Trieste, Austria, which ever may be found most convenient.

The Des Moines Detached.

The Des Moines has been detached from the European squadron and attached to the Caribbean squadron, and ordered to sail for Guantanamo. The Des Moines will return north not later than August 1 for